

A breed apart.

The Triumph 650's

The pacesetters. Conceived in a tradition of quality, bred for achievement. Three high performance 650's that can give you the edge at the track ...on or off the road.

Leading the field is the Bonneville, probably the best machine in its class anywhere. This is the one, in modified form, that holds the world's land speed record of 245.667 mph.

Powered by a 40 cu. in. OHV vertical twin, the Bonneville is capable of developing 52 BHP at 6500 rpm. Twin 30mm Amal concentric carburetors assure reliable fuel flow under the most trying conditions. Improved kick-start lever for easy engine turnover. Four well-chosen gear ratios for extra smoothness (wide and close ratios available as optional extras). Newly developed twin downswept exhaust with sports type mufflers and exhaust header coupling pipe for quieter operation. Improved ruggedized single down-tube frame for strength plus lightness. A proven performer with vastly improved performance.

Feisty brother to the Bonneville is the Trophy 650, the pacesetter that has made off-the-road winning a Triumph specialty.

Boasting the same power plant as the Bonneville, the Trophy comes equipped with a heavy-duty skid plate, hydraulic front forks with internal damping design, adjustable Girling rear suspension, quick detach rear wheel, high gear ratio and a new up-swept dual exhaust that makes the Trophy look like it's zooming even when it's standing still.

Rounding out the trio is the Tiger 650, the big pacesetting tourer that eats up the road instead of the rider.

A single carb version of the same four stroke, twin 650 engine for easy maintenance and smooth performance. All of the race proven features of the Bonneville including eight-inch twin leading shoe front brake with air scoop, rubber mounted and illuminated tachometer and speedometer, voltage regulating zener diode in finned heat sink, adjustable twin seat and reinforced chrome handrail. Add an extra large 3½ gallon gas tank and you have the bike that can outdistance the rest, all day and all night, too.

When you consider the outstanding performance, rugged reliability and clean-lined beauty bred into every Triumph 650, you'll know why Triumph is a breed apart.
